FROM THE DEAN

Hello dear friends and colleagues,

Happy New Year! 2021!

The New Year always brings with it hope for a new tomorrow and a good dose of optimism. Certainly, after the challenges of this past year, we are due some! This New Year is unique, not only because a new President has been inaugurated, but because we also have two new vaccines that we are holding out much hope for, and we are eagerly awaiting the chance to reunite with choirs, congregations, choruses, and students in our beloved churches, concert halls, schools and universities, and around our dinner tables with friends. Although the way ahead is still uncertain, we have much to be grateful for and much to hope for. I think one thing that has given me so much hope is seeing in action how we as musicians have so much hope and optimism left in us despite this having been perhaps the most challenging year of our lives. This is no more apparent than in the RIAGO webinar event we held last December, Creativity in Crisis. Our own Stephen Martorella has written a recap about it and shares his thoughts and takeaways. We also provide a link to the webinar which was recorded and live streamed. If you have not yet had a chance to see it, please do. It is very uplifting. Here's the link:

<https://www.facebook.com/gigi.mitchellvelasco/videos/10225041313999440/>

I have seen many of you online in your church services, accompanying online recitals and playing online organ recitals. One takeaway for me during the webinar was the fact that no matter what, we as musicians are creators. I also see your cooking, your quilts, your knitting, gardens and home projects on Facebook and Instagram, and I am in awe of your resilience and desire to make the world a better place! It is this creativity that keeps us alive and keeps us sane. Please remember if you are in need of assistance financially because of hardship and joblessness we have a program that can help you. Please look into the newsletter for further information.

Despite it all, I have enjoyed being part of your journey over the past year, and I look forward with eagerness to our next adventures, whatever life may bring. I am, as always, grateful to be here for you, as are all of us at RIAGO.

PANDEMIC ROUNDTABLE - CREATIVITY IN CRISIS

Webinar Wrap-up
Stephen T. Martorella

RIAGO held its first ever webinar on December 11, 2020, when Dean Gigi Mitchell-Velasco hosted an international panel of 10 people in the musical arts, one of whom is also a licensed clinical social worker. After a welcome and introduction by Elizabeth George, Director of Member Engagement and Chapter Development for the American Guild of Organists, participants each presented and discussed samples of their work and explained how they adapted, continued, and planned for a future despite the pandemic. Panelists included international concert organist Katelyn Emerson, who recently performed for our chapter before the pandemic hit. Persons in and around Rhode Island included choral clinician Paulo Faustini, violinist with the Rhode Island Philharmonic; Handel and Haydn Society, and Concertmaster Vermont Symphony Katherine Winterstein; and recorder player and licensed clinical social worker Katy Roth. Casting the net wider we heard from David Hayes, Music Director of the New York Choral Society and Director of Orchestral and Conducting Studies at the Mannes School of Music; Matt Scinto, Music Director of Cape Cod Chamber Orchestra and Civic Orchestra of New Haven; Erin Hannigan, Principal Oboe for the Dallas Symphony and co-Founder of Artists for Animals, Thomas Vozzela; Director of Music, organist and choirmaster at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Kansas City, MO; New York based Courtney Carey, operatic baritone and presenter/promoter and founder of Courtney's Stars of Tomorrow; international opera star Carl Tanner, not to mention our own Dean Gigi, who added insight from personal stories of her own distinguished career as an international concert and opera star. We also heard from the leaders of the New England Musicians Relief Fund, Gabriel Langfur Rice and Hazel Dean Davis talk about their philanthropic mission of extending financial assistance to affected free-lance musicians.

Hearing their stories, one theme stood out: Do not give up, keep up your resilience and keep on in creative ways, keeping your name and your game alive, your projects in peoples' minds, your hopes and dreams alive for the future, and offer hope to others to persevere.

This is not the first global crisis, nor will it be the last, but the response of our medical and first responders, and the resonance of the arts should all be inspiration to work toward a brighter tomorrow, and to be heroes today simply by observing the protocols.

Cindy and I from Aruba wish you all a happy, healthy, and COVID-safe New Year, one and all.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Don't forget that February is Black History Month. This gives us an opportunity to discover new and exciting repertoire. Check out this schedule from Classical 91.5 –

MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY

The RI AGO Board is planning on producing an updated Members Directory for 2021-2022. Due to our National Organization's restructuring of Membership Dues, please make sure you have updated your Membership as soon as possible. Christopher Souza plans to organize this directory in the early spring of 2021. Thanks for everyone's cooperation.

THE 2021 LOIS CONBOY MEMORIAL AWARDS

This year's Louis Conboy Memorial Awards are now accepting applications for the Young Artist, Encouragement and Discovery Awards. Please see each attached application information on these Awards.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR COVID SETBACKS

RIAGO has set up an Emergency Relief Fund (ERF) in response to the current and ongoing crisis and its economic impact on our members. The relief will be a $100 gift card to a supermarket where the recipient buys groceries. To be eligible, applicants must be current members of our chapter and have lost income from their church postings as a result of being laid off due to the COVID-19 lockdown any time after 15 March 2020. This gift card may be issued only once in a 12-month period. Individuals with liability and/or insurance claims pending are not eligible. To apply, send a statement with your name, home address, telephone, email, a brief paragraph detailing the circumstances of your dismissal, the date of dismissal, date of reinstatement (if applicable), and the name of the institution from which you were dismissed. Please send this statement to Steve Martorella at steve.fbc@verizon.net.

The matter will be subject to review by the ERF Committee (Lawrence Wilson and Stephen Martorella) and subject to final approval by the Dean (Gigi Mitchell-Velasco).

Mark Steinbach's new album "Glass and Bach in Dresden" was released January 15, 2021 on Philip Glass' Orange Mountain Music label. Steinbach performs on Gottfried Silbermann's magnum opus of 1755 in the Kathedrale St. Trinitatis of Dresden. Although the Kathedrale was destroyed in the tragic bombing of Dresden in February 1945, the organ narrowly escaped destruction, as it had been removed shortly before and stored safely outside of the city. The album is available as a CD, digital download, or streaming online: <http://smarturl.it/8uvdzk> Steinbach is University Organist and Senior Lecturer in Music at Brown University. For more information contact Mark_Steinbach@brown.edu.
